Lirael is the central protagonist of Lirael and Abhorsen. She also appears at the end of The Creature in the Case. Born into the Clayr, she was raised as an orphan from an early age, with little memory of her mother and no knowledge of her father. An outsider because of her unusual looks (dark hair and pale skin, the opposite of most Clayr), she is the only known daughter of the Clayr to not have ...

Lirael is the only one of a community of clairvoyant women not to be gifted with "the Sight," and the mystery of her parentage contributes to her alienation. Just after her 14th birthday, Lirael releases a Stilken (half-woman, half-crustacean) from a glass-covered coffin.

Lirael on Apple Books

Lirael, an orphan, appears at the beginning of the story as a shy, introverted, sorrowful child. However, unlike Sabriel in the previous book, she gradually develops during the story into a self-confident, courageous and independent young woman. I liked the character of Lirael, whose abandonment and disappointment during childhood due to her ...
